Five AM Club and Life Achievements

Robin Sharma is best known for his book The Monk who Sold His Ferrari. He has published 12 other books, and founded the training company Sharma Leadership International. He is one of the most widely read authors alive. Here I would like to mention some of the key points of his Book, The Five AM Club. Let us understand the following points clearly.

Lesson 1: “The Power of Early Mornings”, The 5 AM Club emphasizes the transformative potential of waking up early. By starting the day at 5 AM, or a time that allows for personal reflection and growth, individuals can gain a competitive advantage, increase productivity, and set a positive tone for the rest of the day.

Lesson 2: “The 20/20/20 Formula”, The book introduces the 20/20/20 formula, which suggests dedicating the first hour of the morning to three activities: 20 minutes of intense exercise, 20 minutes of reflection or meditation, and 20 minutes of learning. This formula helps individuals optimize their physical, mental, and emotional well-being, fostering personal growth and success.

Lesson 3: Mastery of the “Twin Cycles of Elite Performance”: The 5 AM Club introduces the concept of the “Twin Cycles”, comprising 90-minute cycles of focused work followed by a 10-minute recovery period. By harnessing these cycles and alternating between deep focus and rejuvenation, individuals can enhance their productivity, creativity, and overall performance.

Lesson 4: “The Importance of Personal

TALENT MANAGEMENT IN HIGHER EDUCATION INSTITUTIONS

Talent management practices in Higher Education Institutions refer to the strategies and processes implemented to attract, develop, retain, and optimize the talents and skills of faculty, staff, and administrators. These practices aim to ensure that the institution has the right people in the right positions, creating a conducive environment for learning, research, and administrative excellence. Talent management in private Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) refers to the strategic and systematic approach of attracting, developing, and retaining high-quality faculty and staff members. Private HEIs often face unique challenges in talent management due to factors such as competition with public institutions, limited resources, and the need to provide a high-quality educational. Here are some key aspects of talent management in private HEIs:

Recruitment and Selection: Private HEIs should establish effective recruitment and selection processes to attract highly skilled and qualified candidates. This includes creating job descriptions, advertising positions, conducting interviews, and assessing candidates' qualifications and fit with the institution's culture and values.

Professional Development: Providing opportunities for professional development is crucial for talent management in private HEIs. Faculty and staff members should have access to ongoing training programmes, workshops, conferences, and other learning opportunities to enhance their skills, keep up with industry trends, and improve their teaching or administrative abilities.

Performance Management: Implementing a

Development”, The book emphasizes the significance of continuous learning and personal development. By committing to daily reading, attending seminars, seeking mentors, and investing in self-improvement, individuals can expand their knowledge, sharpen their skills, and unlock their true potential.

Lesson 5: “The Value of Mindset and Attitude”, The Five AM Club underscores the significance of cultivating a positive mindset and attitude. By adopting a growth-oriented mindset, reframing challenges as opportunities, practicing gratitude, and maintaining an optimistic outlook, individuals can overcome obstacles and approach life with resilience and enthusiasm.

Lesson 6: “Building Strong Morning Rituals”, The book highlights the importance of creating a structured morning routine that aligns with personal goals and values. By incorporating activities like journaling, goal-setting, visualization, and affirmations, individuals can set a positive tone for the day, foster clarity, and cultivate a sense of purpose.

Lesson 7: “The Power of Accountability and Community”, The 5 AM Club emphasizes the impact of accountability and the support of a like-minded community. By joining or forming a group of individuals committed to waking up early and personal growth, individuals can hold each other accountable, share experiences, provide support, and create an environment conducive to success and personal development. Dear Students, decisions always transform our lives, but decisions must be based on certain drastic positive principles. The Lessons mentioned above of the Book, The Five AM Club, are such creative and transforming lessons that can be followed every day. Best Wishes for a great success to all students and a Great beginning of Graduation and Post Graduation studies for the First Years.

robust performance management system allows private HEIs to set clear expectations, provide regular feedback, and evaluate the performance of their faculty and staff members. This can involve performance appraisals, goal setting, and performance improvement plans to support employee growth and alignment with institutional objectives.

Compensation and Benefits: Private HEIs need to offer competitive compensation and benefits packages to attract and retain top talent. This includes salary structures, health insurance, retirement plans, paid time off, and other perks that demonstrate the institution's commitment to its employees' well-being and job satisfaction.

Succession Planning: Private HEIs should have a succession plan in place to ensure continuity and minimize disruptions in leadership positions. Identifying potential successors, providing mentoring and development opportunities, and creating a pipeline of future leaders can help the institution maintain stability and achieve long-term goals.

Employee Engagement and Recognition: Fostering a positive work environment and promoting employee engagement are essential for talent management. Private HEIs can implement initiatives such as staff appreciation programmes, team-building activities, and regular communication channels to keep employees motivated, engaged, and connected to the institution's mission.

Diversity and Inclusion: Private HEIs should strive to create an inclusive and diverse workforce. Actively recruiting and retaining individuals from diverse backgrounds, promoting a culture of respect and inclusion, and providing equal opportunities for professional growth contribute to a more vibrant and enriching educational environment.

Retention Strategies: Retaining talented faculty and staff members is crucial for private HEIs. This can be achieved through various strategies, including offering career advancement opportunities, creating a positive work-life balance, recognizing and rewarding outstanding performance, and fostering a supportive and collaborative culture.

Talent management plays a crucial role in providing quality education to learners. Here are several reasons why talent management is essential in the education sector: Talent Management in Quality Education Talent management plays a crucial role in providing quality education to learners. Talent management involves identifying, attracting, and recruiting skilled and experienced educators. By employing talented teachers, Institutions can ensure high-quality instruction and create a positive learning environment. Moreover, talent management practices such as professional development opportunities, mentorship programmes, and career progression pathways can help retain competent educators, reducing turnover and maintaining continuity in education. Talent management is vital for providing quality education to learners. By recruiting and retaining qualified educators, nurturing specialized skills, offering professional development opportunities, promoting diversity, and addressing individual student needs, building Collaborative Learning Communities, enables the educators to learn from one another and collectively improve their teaching methodologies.

To conclude, educational institutions can ensure a high standard of education and contribute to the overall growth and development of learners through Talent Management. Overall, effective talent management in private HEIs requires a comprehensive approach that addresses recruitment, development, engagement, and retention of faculty and staff members. By investing in their employees, private HEIs can create a competitive advantage, enhance their reputation, and provide a high-quality educational experience for students. Implementing these talent management practices in higher education institutions can contribute to building a strong and motivated workforce, ultimately benefiting the institution's overall mission and goals.

Reading Week 2023-24- English Department

'The Reading Week Competitions' were held from 4th July to 7th July 2023. The event encompassed a variety of engaging competitions designed to celebrate the written word and foster a love for reading. On 4th July, the competitions were kicked off with the English Versification and Extempore. The Participants demonstrated their poetic prowess and eloquence through captivating verses and impromptu speeches.

Continuing the week's festivities, on 5th July, the Literary Quiz brought forth a thrilling battle of knowledge and Literary trivia. Contestants showcased their extensive understanding of literature, authors, and famous literary works. The atmosphere was charged with excitement as participants challenged each other's literary expertise, showcasing the depth of their literary acumen.

The weeklong competitions were concluded on 7th July with the highly anticipated Spot Dubbing and Listening competition. Participants exhibited their talent for dubbing by synchronizing voices with video clips, adding a touch of humor and creativity. The Listening competition tested their ability to comprehend and interpret audio content, further highlighting their attention to detail and aural comprehension skills. Throughout the week, the competitions witnessed a high level of enthusiasm and sportsmanship among the participants.

Reading Week 2023-24- Hindi Department

In regard to the reading week, the Department of Hindi conducted a reading competition on 26th June 2023 and a poetry recitation competition on 27th June 2023 for the students of YIMS. Poetry recitation is a mode of expression for the students to develop their verbal skills and to boost their confidence. The students were given the freedom to select any poems as per their own interest. The time duration given to the students was a maximum of five minutes.

The students enthusiastically participated in the competition as they got an opportunity to exhibit their talent and confidence. The Names and Classes of the winners are given below in the brochure

Basheer Anusmaranam

Vaikom Muhammad Basheer (1908 – 1994), popularly referred to as Beypore Sulthan, was a writer of Malayalam Literature. He was a writer, humanist, freedom fighter, novelist and short story writer, noted for his path-breaking, down-to-earth style of writing that made him equally popular among literary critics as well as the common man. The Government of India awarded him the fourth highest civilian honor of the Padma Shri in 1982. He resolved to join the fight for Indian Independence, leaving school to do so while he was in the fifth form. Basheer was known for his secular attitude, and he treated all religions with respect. Basheer, who earned the sobriquet, Beypore Sultan, after he wrote about his later-day life in Beypore as the Sultan, died there on 5 July 1994, on the death anniversary of renowned Novelist Vaikkam Muhammed Basheer. Department of Languages (Malayalam), conducted commemoration meeting. Mr. Sreekumar K welcomed the meeting and Dr. Vishal Johnson spoke about Basheer's life and works. Chitra II B.Sc Chemistry gave vote of thanks. First year BA BSc students participated in the meeting. The programme concluded at 11.30 am. The journey through Basheer memories turned out to be a great success.
